

HIS SPINE GETS CHILLY

WHEN YUKON IS MENTIONED
TO FRANK LAIRD.Who Sipped From the Bitter Cup of Experience Up in the God-forsaken Locality—Interesting Talk.

The Yukon fever has struck Canton and is breaking out in lurid spots all over the face of the municipality. Red danger signs appear on many residences, and restless heads by the score are nightly haunting on sleepless pillows—heads in which the raw fangled Klondyke wheels are burning morrily, and pictures of great gleams laden with big chunks of gold are constantly thrown upon the canvas of the fevered brain. On the streets, little groups of men who have not seen the "opening of the mill" or discovered the restoration of confidence in the present management of national affairs, are talking the matter over and consulting maps as to whether it would be expedient to go by the way of Cleveland or away up around Toledo. The voice of the eighth-longed-for is already heard in the land, and sleek individuals have arrived in the city having in their inside pockets a few hundred thousand shares of stock in the Easy Mark mine which they are delirious of placing at your own figure—and money. Local speculators who are too old and tired to risk the hardships of a trip to the north pole are nevertheless anxious to fill their baskets at the mountains of gold, and one of them has made a splendid offer to two handsome young men who face as fresh as the roses of the spring. His proposition is to give the young men $2,000 to meet the expenses of the trip into the gold fields of Alaska. They are to buy in a supply of Indians, two-hundred-pound and condensed milk up toward the Arctic ocean and then pack away back into the hills and proceed to fill their pockets with the choicest and best nuggets on the turf. Only the whole thing will go with this magnificent offer. Any attempt to turn gold dust in his eyes will meet with a stern rebuke and a reduction in the wage scale. When the young men return to Canton they will hold a star chamber session with the man of means and divvy up, each to receive one-third the stake. The youths are lying awake nights and keeping tuned up on the various horrors, but they can't shake just what to do. It would be a good thing if it would all right, but there are a few drawbacks to the summer outing. There are several varieties of polar bears up around the diggings, each with a peculiar and distinct taste for white meat. It is an acquired taste and one which often leads to casualties among those known to the old timers as "tender feet," and to the Alaskans as "cheechos." Then, a monument to the glacial period sometimes gets tired of the long wait and quietly slips down on a camp of wealth seekers, thereby causing distress and sorrow at home, but leaving no cause for gain in the lands of the far north.

There are perhaps a hundred men in the city who have saved a few hundred dollars and are anxious to spend it in a ruse with a few words from one who has been there will not be misapprehended.

Mr. Frank Laird, who resides on the second floor of 1287 West Tenth street, spent three years and several hundred dollars in chasing the elusive gold phantom that hung like a fatuous like in the dreary waste of the Yukon valley. When asked to give his experience in a few words, he said:

"The mere mention of the Yukon sends chills up my spine. I can not look back on my experience in that dreary country without feelings of disgust at the weakness of man, and pity for the deluded fools who, at the simple mention of great fields of gold, rush in where death stalks forth in a hundred guises and where there is not a single comfort for civilized man."

"In company with four companions I left the Durango mine at Irwin, Col., where I had worked for some years, and struck out for the Yukon, whose stories just as big as those circulated now had come of the vast wealth to be had only in the picking up. It was in the spring of 1893 that we took a vessel from San Francisco and sailed for St. Petersburg. Arriving there we were told to get a few things needed in the Alaskan fields. It cost several hundred dollars to buy oil, suits and necessities, all of which were out of proportionally high priced. Then we sailed for the Yukon region and landed at what was afterward named Juneau. Here we laid in supplies, and securing a number of sledges, (native Indians,) to lug our stores, started for the interior. It was during the season of daylight and we trudged on through cold and sleet and a drizzling rain which fell almost continuously during the daylight or working season, which lasts but four months of the year, the balance being the night season when there is heavy light but four hours a day."

"We at once struck out for the hills. After months of hardship and peril we reached our claims and set to work digging for the yellow metal. I remember the day we cleaned up our first month's digging. In the dismal cold we cleaned our pans and our month's work panned and just enough gold to pay for a ham we had eaten in four days. So we pulled up stakes and took another claim farther up the river. But it was the same thing over again, and so a year dragged slowly along. In the meantime our expenses were enormous, considering what we got for our money. Here is a partial list of our cabin expenditures: Small piece of venison, $1.25; four pounds bacon, $1.50; one salmon belly, 50 cents; two pounds dried apples, $1.00; one can peas, $1.00; small can condensed milk, $1.00; two pounds beef, when boat arrived, 60 cents. A board ten feet long and fifteen inches wide cost $1.50 and a Sitka charged 50 cents a day to carry it back to the hills. All these things had to be purchased on

Congressman Lewis, (Dem.) of Washington, to Congressman Grosvenor, (Rep.) of Ohio—"Is it not a fact that the duties on white lead give the lead trust $3,500,000 of protection?"

Congressman Grosvenor, (Rep.)—"I don't know and I don't care."

WANT IT CONSTRUED.

The Will of a Man Who Didn't Believe Eternal Punishment Is In Controversy.

The case of William M. Johnson, administrator de bonis non with will annexed of James Allen, deceased, plaintiff, against James Allen, Jr., et al., for the proper construction by the court of the will in question, filed recently, presents a unique document, a part of which at least will be interesting reading. James Allen, Sr., the testator, was a resident of Wilmet. He gave to his wife his property, personal and real, same to be sold after her death and turned into cash to be divided among six heirs. In this connection the will says regarding one of the heirs, a woman: "It is my will that she shall have $800 more than my other legal heirs, as they each of them get an outset of that much which she did not get. But it is not my will that she shall have any compensation for the time she lived with us before becoming of age, as in my estimation she does no more than earn her own living." In closing the will the testator said: "It is my will that my coffin shall be a home structure, substantially made of black walnut boards, and not to cost more than twelve or fifteen dollars, and my body to be buried in a lot in Wilmet cemetery, without unnecessary pomp, ostentation, or parade, and therefore no ringing of church bells for my death, and my body to be taken direct from my house to the cemetery and buried. If my friends having anything said at my funeral, it is my will and I direct the speaker to be a free thinker or universalist, the former being preferred, as I desire that no advocate of the contemptible and blasphemous doctrine of eternal punishment shall have anything to say at my funeral."

MR. FRANK EWING

IS CHAIRMAN OF THE DEMOCRATIC
CENTRAL COMMITTEE.A Mass Convention to Be Called For Next Wednesday to Select Delegates to the Senatorial Convention—Proceedings.

A particularly interesting meeting of the county central committee was held at Best's hall Saturday. There were several candidates for chairman and a general interest in the proceedings caused a large attendance.

Chairman John M. Myers, of the old committee, called the meeting to order at 10:25. Secretary Lilly took his place and business opened at once. Chairman Myers said that the committee had met to effect an organization and to represent the Democrats. "You are here," said he, "in the interest of no candidate, but to effect an organization which will be a credit to the party and will do effective work against the common enemy. The old chairman will preside until organization is effected."

The chair then called for nomination for chairman of the committee. W. J. Piero moved that Dr. R. G. Williams, of Alliance, be temporary chairman of the meeting. Mr. Myers stated that the motion was out of order, as the chair had already decided that the old chairman would preside. J. W. Pontias also took exception to the chair's ruling, and W. J. Piero made formal appeal from the decision of the chair. The roll was called on the appeal.

The first contest came when E. S. Howells and Hon. Tobias Schott expressed the proxy of John Yengling, of Massillon precinct, Perry township, in a proxy presented by Mr. Schott expressly restricted the proxy presented by Mr. Howells, and so far as this question was concerned the chair ruled that the proxy presented by Mr. Schott prevailed.

Then came the other contests in Massillon, the chair sustaining the committee that appeared on his list, and what was known at the time of the county convention as the committee elected by the Massillon people who were headed by E. S. Howells. The contesting committee, championed by Otto E. Young, Esq., were not permitted to vote by the chair.

The vote then proceeded and stood 27 in favor of sustaining the chair and 37 against it. W. J. Piero's motion to elect Dr. R. G. Williams as temporary chairman was then put and Dr. Williams was elected unanimously. John M. Myers stepped down, after introducing Mr. Williams.

The temporary chairman commenced business at once, after thanking the committee. Mr. Lilly was chosen temporary secretary unanimously.

On motion of J. W. Pontias the chair was authorized to appoint a committee on credentials.

The roll was called and contents noted. There was one contest reported from Paris precinct, Paris township, Mr. Stummel contesting the seat certified for Mr. Summers. A contest was also reported from precinct A of the 7th ward. F. J. Benson contested the seat of Samuel Burger.

The credentials committee was appointed as follows: Jesse Teeters, A. B. Sherick, J. W. Pontias, Joseph Berg, Thomas H. Hays.

The committee retired to hear contests and the session took a recess until 12 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

It was 12:35 before the committee got together again. Chairman Teeters presented the report. The contest that was reported from the Seventh ward of Canton was not presented to the committee and there is, therefore, no contest. In Paris precinct Mr. Stummel had the largest number of votes at the caucus and was seated as committeeman from that precinct. With reference to the Massillon contest the committeemen represented by Otto E. Young were recommended. An amendment was offered by John F. Weiss that a new election be held in contested precincts in Massillon. Mr. Howells opposed this. He said, "We do not care for any more elections on this question. We accept the report of the committee and thank the committee, and if it is accepted by this committee we will retire with good feeling. We have fought the fight, and apparently have lost. We accept the decision, as I know the gentlemen of the other side would do the same. Let us settle this matter here and now, and let that end it."

Mr. Weiss withdrew his motion and the question returned on the adoption of the committee report. The vote was, For the adoption, 33; against the adoption, 27.

The roll was filed up properly and then the committee proceeded to select a permanent chairman.

Mr. Herman Mertz moved that no proxies be accepted at this meeting nor any subsequent meeting of this committee. This had been previously settled at least so far as the temporary organization was concerned. Nominations were then in order.

John F. Weiss placed in nomination W. J. Piero, of Canton.

Jesse Teeters named Frank Ewing, of Alliance.

Squire J. S. Hudson named Squire J. H. Reigner.

The nominations were then closed, and as the names of committeemen were then called they stepped forward and deposited their ballots in a hat presided over by Louis Thom and J. T. Beuchat.

The vote stood: Ewing 26, Piero 11, Reigner 20. On motion of Mr. Reigner the election was made unanimous.

Chairman Ewing was escorted to the chair. He made a neat speech, pleading earnest work in behalf of Democracy and Democratic success.

Nominations for secretary were then in order. Otto Ekkhard named Herman Mertz, of Canton. T. W. Morgan named W. J. Evans, of New Berlin. The vote stood: Mertz 21, Evans 41.

During this vote Mr. Lilly, temporary secretary, was obliged to retire from the meeting and Charles R. Frazer assumed his seat. Secretary Evans took the chair after the ballot, the election being made unanimous on motion of Mr. Mertz.

MASS CONVENTION.

A difference of opinion existed among committeemen as to the authority of the committee selected at the county convention to appoint delegates it being contended that the committee had no power to proceed further than selecting the time and place and assisting to fix the apportionment. It was decided by a vote of 25 to 19 that a convention be held in Canton Wednesday at ten o'clock for the purpose of selecting senatorial delegates.

CAST ADRIFT.

YOUNG MASSILLON MAN FINALLY HEARD FROM.

Sends a Note From the Ocean in a Bottle and His Mother and Friends Believe Him to Be Dead.

The following letter was received by Marshal Markel, of Massillon, Saturday, with an enclosure:

San Francisco, Cal., July 19, 1897.
Chief of Police, Massillon, Ohio: This enclosed note was picked up on the beach near the Cliff House, Saturday afternoon, July 17. It may be of importance to C. G. Oertel or friends, whether there or at Eureka, Cal. Very truly,
J. H. MORRISON, Lima, Ohio.

The note referred to by the writer reads as follows:

Mid-Ocean, June 22, 1897.
I, the undersigned, met this drift as far as I can help. I left Eureka in a row boat, got expelled, and am now adrift. Please send help. I am forty miles out.

C. G. OERTEL, Massillon, Ohio.

Marshal Markel hurriedly delivered the startling letter to Goodhart B. Oertel, a brother of the writer and it was then taken to Mrs. F. A. Seberg, mother of the Oertels, living on Chester street, Massillon. Mrs. Seberg was nearly prostrated with grief over what she thought to be reliable information. Charles G. Oertel was a blacksmith by trade, aged 21 years, and he went west about two years ago. Another son resides in Nannaloo, British Columbia, and a telegram was sent to him to go to San Francisco at once and inquire into the matter. The supposed drowned man is well known in Massillon.

BADLY BRUISED.

FRANK SCHWERTNER SUFFERS
A PAINFUL INJURY.

His Foot Gets Under a Street Car—A Great Crowd Glimmering For Seats
—An Old Lady Is Injured From the Same Cause.

Mr. Frank Schwertner is lying at his home nursing a bruised foot, but the circumstances surrounding the occasion for such action on his part make it appear that he is fortunate to have a foot to nurse.

After the ball game at Mahaffey park, Sunday afternoon, the great crowd of people became impatient to get home, and crowded the small platform that has been erected at the entrance to the ball park. The first batch of people had left and others, to the number of about 2,000, yet desired to go. When the cars came from town there was naturally a great desire to board them, and there was some question as to whether the cars should stop at the platform or run through to the switches. Officer Jake Hambach ordered the car to push through to the switches, and it started. Immediately there was a rush. Those on the front portion of the platform were shoved towards the moving cars, by those in the rear. Several persons also attempted to board the cars to insure getting seats, and there was a general scramble. The result was what anyone might foresee. Men and women were knocked down indiscriminately.

Mr. Schwertner could not withstand the force of the shoving and pushing and fell. In an endeavor to assist himself one foot went under the trail car and was caught by the flange of the wheel. The shoe was torn off and the foot terribly bruised. It was thought at first that the foot was so badly injured that amputation would be necessary but this, fortunately proved, to be untrue. Dr. L. D. Blanchard and Officers McCleod, Ryan and Tice lent assistance, and Mr. Schwertner was brought to the city in their care. Dr. Blanchard using methods to stop the flow of blood until a surgeon could be reached.

The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. A. C. Brant and an examination was had. The bruised and bleeding member was cradled by the skillful surgeon, and it was found that the bones were not crushed completely and that with any sort of luck the wounds would get well at an early date, though total recovery will be by no means immediate. Suggested by the influence of mild opiates, Mr. Schwertner passed a restful night and is today doing nicely.

When Mr. Schwertner was thrown so that his foot went under the car, others were buffeted about and knocked down before the car was stopped. Mrs. Jacob Hexamer, Sr., and Mrs. Jacob Hexamer, Jr., together with two little children, were thrown from the end of the platform to the ground, about five feet below. The elder lady, being about 80 years of age, was quite badly hurt. Her back was bruised and sprained and she suffered from severe bumps. The other lady and the children were not injured to any extent.

Agitation for gates and a system to control the people who insist upon trying to board moving cars and pushing other people under the wheels, is now progressing.
